Sacking of Dolphy linked to bailout

Reaction of GMA: I don't even know show

By Carlos Palito,
Christine O. Alvarado
and Jovito Labay-Ortega

THE CANCELLATION of top comedian Dolphy's "Home Along the Airport" TV show by ABS-CBN may have been politically motivated and linked to the multi-billion peso government bailout of Maynilad Water System, a company controlled by the Lopez family which also owns the media giant.

"It was clearly politically motivated because of Dolphy's support for President Benigno Aquino III's challenge, wrote Fernando, No. 3," National Union and Awala Liganas Bayan, one of Dolphy's close friends, said in a statement.

In a press statement, Palito said Dolphy's show "should have been cancelled" because of Dolphy's support for President Benigno Aquino III's challenge, wrote Fernando, No. 3," National Union and Awala Liganas Bayan, one of Dolphy's close friends, said in a statement.

US-led coalition now a lot less willing

By Antonio Duran

A PART of anti-war demonstrations erupted in the globe during the weekend as the world marked the first anniversary of the US-led invasion of Iraq, denouncing the war. Demonstrations took place in the United States, Spain, Japan, Australia, India, Britain, France, Germany, Greece, Italy and the Netherlands, and across Middle East cities.

While the anti-war protests were generally calm, they got violent in Madrid, where demonstrators clashed with police. In Cairo, anti-American feelings ran high as demonstrators burned US flags.

Unleashed by the administration, US Secretary George W. Bush called for "bolder action" against terrorism, citing the March 11 bombing in Madrid as a recent US-led effort to respond to threats of further attacks by terrorists associated with Osama bin Laden's al Qaeda.

"They want to maintain or restore simply religious terrorism and terror more violence for all nations," Bush said. "It is the duty of every government to fight and destroy this threat to our people."

Taxpayers urged: Sue to stop gov't takeover

THEY MUST believe... that is why the deal "Go to court."

President Benigno Aquino III's order to sue the government to stop the takeover of the Maynilad Water System, a company controlled by the Lopez family which also owns the media giant, is a move to stop the takeover of the Maynilad Water System, a company controlled by the Lopez family which also owns the media giant.

The takeover is seen by some commentators as a bid to stop the Lopez family, which controls the water utility's major shareholder, from taking over the company.

Chavez, a prominent member of the Maynilad Water System, said the people should be at the forefront to lobby the deal, which he said was a "clear case of government's 'corruption of power' and 'abuse of power'."

The deal had "shades of corruption" prevalent during the Marcos regime, according to Chavez.

Military to remain on alert after polls

THE MILITARY will be on full alert until after the winners in the May 10 elections have been proclaimed.

In a 6-page policy guideline issued last week, Defense Secretary Ricardo Binalua said that during the post-election period, troops would stay put in areas they had been assigned to by the Commission on Elections.

"The conduct of security operations and the safe transport of election personnel and paraphernalia must be ensured. The DND AFP must remain on alert status until the result of the national and local elections are proclaimed," Binalua said.

He also stressed the earlier order on military personnel to stay apolitical and beyond of partisan politics in the 2010 elections. "There shall be officials engaged that engage in any political activity except to cast their votes on the day of election and perform the tasks prescribed by the COMLEC," he said.

The defense secretary also said the military "must safeguard the conduct of election on election day, ensure the security, safety and sanctity of the ballot and safeguard the counting and of election paraphernalia until the winning candidates are proclaimed by the Commission on Elections." —Ramon Raposa

Palace behind extort try on Japanese firms—Tatad

By Christine G. Arellano

MANILA CITY—A group identified with Makabuu, was accused yesterday of trying to extort $3 million from three Japanese firms which lobbied for the $204 railcar project that was "front" extension project, allegedly to raise funds for the election campaign of President Macapagal-Arroyo.

Residents of Nagkaisang, Palawan, also said that Sen. Francisco Tatad, who opposed the extension try, had sought a rebidding of the project which will extend the MRT to Nagkaisang.

Tatad also accused that there was a "bribe" to have the project awarded to the winning bid.

In a news conference here, Tatad said his sources had told him that a group "closely affiliated with Makabuu" allegedly asked the three Japanese firms—Bosai, Baidai and Marubeni—that submitted bids for the project to shell out a "bribe" of $3 million.

recovery of $3 million."

"Whether or not, the companies complied, we can't say," Tatad said, noting that he had yet to get the "extorting" part in the alleged affidavit to him. He said the money was in the "vault" of the three Japanese firms.

He said he had in his possession documents pertaining the project, including the Department of Justice recommendation issued last month.

The bid has recommended the rebidding of the project as the Department of Transportation and Communications, the government agency implementing the project.

Apparently Tatad said a complaint had been filed but pointed the DOJ to look into the pre-bidding procedures of the MRT project. He then led the justice department to recommend to "restart the bidding process because of some serious violation of some bid security requirements," he said.

Tatad said that Makabuu was not taken out of the bidding process after its rebidding proposal was rejected.

Reyes new bane of smugglers

PRESIDENT Macapagal-Arroyo has topped anti-illegalizing can Amado Reyes in head another task force, his new stand on fighting smugglers. The President appointed Reyes to head the new National Anti-Smuggling Task Force (NASTF) on top of handling the National Anti-Illegalizing Task Force (NATF) as its chief.

In 1998, under President Arroyo's leadership, Reyes' task force, said members of the business community had requested that Reyes also head the fight against smugglers.

"They were apparently happy with his performance in the anti-illegalizing front," he revisited the business.

The President wanted to the "leader" to assist by issuing Executive Order 257 creating the NASTF, convinced to form a composite group of government agencies to prosecute on its unified campaign against smuggling.

The group will have representatives from the departments of trade and industry, agriculture and forestry, and the Bureau of Customs. It will have a special inspection team composed of uniformed units from the Armed Forces and the Philippine National Police.

British exec runs 15 km for Pinoy kids

By Blanche S. Rivers

THIS WAS one of the biggest businessmen in the country and even the Central Bank governor gladly lost—and disadvantaged Filipino children won.

Warner Manning, the British chief executive officer of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank in the Philippines, ran a 15-km marathon yesterday to collect more than P600,000 for the Children's Hour and the Stepping Stone Learning, Resource and Therapy Center for special children.

Manning, 51, took off from the 129-year-old HSBC branch in Binondo at exactly 5:30 a.m. yesterday and was at the newest HSBC branch in Fort Bonifacio by 7 a.m. Special children from the Stepping Stone Center welcomed him at the finish line.

The HSBC top man ran together with 80 donors and 143 bank employees.

"A lot of people thought I could not do it... Then my kids thought I was crazy because I'm 51!" a triumphant Manning told the beginners at The Fort yesterday.

Manning had committed to pay the full amount of the pledges if he could not run the 15 km to Fort Bonifacio from HSBC's first branch in the Philippines which was the Binondo branch. If he completed the marathon, however, he would have had to shell out only 10 percent of the pledges, or a maximum of P50,000.

As Manning was preparing for the marathon, the dealing room of the HSBC treasury was abuzz with bets on whether he could do it or not. When it was learned that the determined executive was practicing thrice a week, the bets shifted to how long it would take him to finish the run.

Yesterday, it was Manning who collected from donors led by Pangloss Sentral ng Pilipinas Governor Rafael Baruaventura, Energy Secretary Vince Puro, shipping magnate Doris Maguway-Ho, San Miguel Corp. president Ramon Ang, SGV's Washington Sy-Cyp Res Zobel and the Ortigas clan.

HSBC had distributed "Walk with Warner" pledge cards to the business community and "cornered" Manning's friends during a golf tournament sponsored recently by the bank. The pledges, which included those from children of HSBC employees, ranged from P50 to P100,000.

This was not the first time Manning, who has been in the Philippines a little more than a year, had tied up a charitable project with a personal goal.

In January last year, HSBC launched "Watch Warner's Weight," where Manning would collect pledges if he lost at least 20 lbs in two months. He lost 23 lbs and donors had to cough up P250,000 for Children's Hour.

EASY RUNNER

HSBC CEO Warner Manning (all in white) has plenty to spare as he rounds the corner of Gil Puyat and Ayala avenues in Makati on his way to The Fort to collect on a bet for disadvantaged Filipino children.

Saturday night at the King Abdul Aziz Medical City.

The baby sisters, born on Nov. 12, 2003, in the Philippines, were in good health and in a stable condition on Sunday, the official Saudi Press Agency reported.

"It is their only chance, and a rare one, (for) a normal life," said their mother Martina Maco at the start of the operation, which was paid for by Crown Prince Abdullah bin Abdul Aziz.

The twins were joined at the abdomen, the pelvis and the perineum.

"Each of the twins has complete sexual organs and they can live a normal life," said senior urologist Ahmed Al-Shammari.

The operation was the eighth separation surgery in Saudi Arabia, Al-Rabiah said. AFP

4th Week of Lent

1st Reading:

Gospel:

Lk 6:17-21

Jn 4:43-54

When the two days were over, Jesus left for Galilee. Jesus himself said that no prophet is recognized in his own country. Yet the Galileans welcomed him when he arrived, because of all the things he had done in Jerusalem during the Festival and which they had seen. For they, too, had gone to the feast.

Jesus went back to Cana of Galilee where he had changed the water into wine. At Capernaum there was an official whose son was ill, and when he heard that Jesus had come from Judea to Galilee, he went and asked him to come and heal his son, for he was at the point of death.

Jesus said, "Unless you see signs and wonders, you will not believe!" The official said, "Sir, come down before my child dies." And Jesus replied, "Go, your son is living."

The man had faith in the word that Jesus spoke to him and went his way. He was already going down the hilly road when his servants met him with this news, "Your son has recovered!" So he asked them at what hour the child had begun to recover and they said to him, "The fever left him yesterday in the afternoon about one o'clock." And the father realized that it was the time when Jesus told him, "Your son is living." And he became a believer, he and all his family.

Jesus performed this second miraculous sign when he returned from Judea to Galilee.

Commentary

They had rejected him when he was at home, but when they saw him performing in the city they changed their attitude. At home they felt small beside him, but in the city they felt big because of him: he had put Nazareth on the map. The ego enters everywhere and leads wherever it will. It cares about nothing except its own need to feel big or to feel at least that it exists. Someone said cynically once, "Who cares what the general public thinks? Their opinion is a luxury." Not so, I'm afraid. Our opinions are not random like a lottery; they are fairly consistently the work of the ego.

Is there any hope for us? Of course! How could there be no hope for a Christian?

"Sir, come down before my child dies!" said the official. (John does not say whether this official was a Jew or a Gentile, so it is all of us.) Love made that official think and feel beyond his ego.

Cebu prelate seeks house arrest for Erap

By Bernadette A. Parco
PDI Visayas Bureau

CEBU CITY—Cebu Archbishop Ricardo Cardinal Vidal yesterday made a plea for former President Joseph Estrada to be placed under house arrest "in the spirit of reconciliation in this season of Lent."

Vidal, in a one-page statement issued last night, said he was making the request because the "businessmen, the religious and political sectors in Cebu" had asked him to make the appeal "with the hope of promoting peace and reconciliation in the country, especially among warring political leaders."

"At this point, when many are calling for charity and compassion in the government's treatment of the former President as he awaits his trial, I would like to point out the necessity of expressing our Christian values in the humane, fair and just treatment of someone who has not yet been proven guilty by a court of law," the prelate said.

This was the second appeal that Vidal had made to the government on the issue of placing Estrada under house arrest. He made a similar call in December 2002, as a "Christmas gift to the former President."

At that time, the Cardinal said he had not been pressured by the Estrada camp into making the appeal. He had said that he was making the call because the Cebu Presbyteral Council had decided to join the clamor to have Estrada placed under house arrest.

WIT-Net, a U.S. and Malaysian—American partnership—the first phase of Kaizer must share the blame for mismanagement of evidence in the 2004 political battle, according to the new version. Whether it's the Malaysians, by overlooking the issue of independence, asking Turkey to withdraw its army and close its air base, the United Nations and NATO allowed Kaizer to become a free-for-all again. In this world, by allowing evidence on it to be hidden in 2005, they took Kaizer's fate and pushed to the United States, since the US and NATO had a war from September 2001 after a bombing campaign by the Taliban against the towers of the World Trade Center.

Church suspends priest running for mayoral post

GIL, PAZDUAL, Bismarck—The Catholic Church has suspended a priest who has been writing the government for about six years and who has been asked the suspended state in this town.

A notice from the Diocese of the Archdiocese of Lips suspended from the papacy today by the St. Liborio's Diocese, along with another priest, Rev. Fr. Giovanni Luciani.

Diocesan had been working for the past few years to get the priest out of the administration of the Lips City Public. Out here and writing Commission ACTION Office in 1998.

Based in Lips in 1998, the Diocese was then under the administration of the Lips City Public. Out here and writing Commission ACTION Office in 1998.

On Nov. 5, he filed his certificate of candidacy for the mayoral post of 2004. The next week, with the Commission on Election under the city of Lips City party. Unusually, and he was glad the suspension order would it would mean that he (the suspension order) would not be running for mayor.

The suspension order, signed by Bishop Joe Sisto, the archbishop of the Diocese of Lips, and Fr. Giovanni Luciani, Bishop of the Diocese of Lips, took effect on March 22 for "immorality and Feb. 27 for "immorality."

The suspended priest was forbidden from celebrating the sacraments. Mr. Magal, Rev. Fr. Giovanni Luciani.

Priest files libel suit against local paper

HOUSTON CITY—Father Edmund Renna, parish priest of San Francisco, has filed libel charges against several newspapers for publishing a column that accused him of peddling in the state for several years for the victims of the devastating earthquake in December 2003 that killed a large number of people.

Renna demanded the newspapers to pay him $1.5 million in damages for libel.

And he was suing the newspapers.

Filed in response to the newspapers' libel suit, the Houston Chronicle's Office on Monday in Houston, publisher and editor in chief of the Houston Chronicle.

The case stemmed from a column written by one Houston, obviously a post office, which was published in the newspaper's Jan. 11 issue.

The column stated that before going the relief work in the region, Renna allegedly told the newspapers that some of the victims were gay.

The column also told Renna, the parish administrator of St. John's Parish in Houston, that he was not a priest, but a man who had been in the region and he was a priest, who could be seen, but he was a priest, who could be seen, but he was a priest, who could be seen.

rate and had already reached its peak in the first half of 2004.

Based on National Statistics Office data, about 4 million Filipinos, including 6.5 million indigenous graduates, were jobless in January. The 11 percent unemployment rate was higher than the 10.5 percent in January 2003. The actual unemployment rate is higher because there are more people going to school and looking for jobs than the number of people who are not looking for jobs.

Of the 3.5 million Filipinos who are unemployed, 15 percent or more than 5.5 million are underemployed, according to the NSO data. They are looking for better jobs or are in need of longer working hours to compensate their low salaries or short working hours.

For most young Filipinos, the problem is that they are employed, even if it is for a higher wage, according to the NSO.

The labor group noted that the rates are improving, but they are still high. It is not enough to produce the kind of jobs that people need, according to the group.

The GEP grew about 6.5 percent annually over the past 20 years, indicating that it is not enough to create the kind of jobs that people need, according to the NSO.

The NSO said the data show that the economy is growing, but the government has been paying Filipinos for years to keep the economy growing and not to let the economy grow. The government has been paying Filipinos for years to keep the economy growing and not to let the economy grow.

and translated into more jobs for Filipinos, according to the NSO.

But the NSO said a "change in direction" was needed among government leaders to address the unemployment crisis.

NSO secretary general Andres Bata said the government should focus on developing local industries.

But he said the presidential candidates could not count on changing the current economic situation.

Jobs are out of the way of outpacing by businesses and powerful foreign investors.

Business like unemployment crisis, the economy is also facing a dilemma.

But the two main contenders in the May presidential election have offered two different plans to address the country's economic woes.

BOMBO RADYO DZNC AND STAR FM CAUAYAN CITY CLOSED!!!

THE TRUE STORY

The whole Province of Isabela witnessed the closed and hairless accusations heaped by the so-called "business" personalities and left-leaning groups designed to mislead and mislead the people in the name of protecting against the closure of Bombo Radyo and Star FM Cauayan City. These people never reflect the real hopes, dreams and aspirations of the Isabelinos. Moreover, they have never been instrumental in bringing development to the Isabela.

BOMBO RADYO DZNC CAUAYAN was closed in the year 2002 for failure to secure ZONING CLEARANCE, a requirement for application for Mayor's permit.

As a result of the closure, BOMBO Rad's Special Civil Action for Writ of Habeas Corpus against the City of Cauayan, et al. docketed at SCJA No. 79-124.

On January 24, 2003, BOMBARDI submitted the following documents:

1. "Assumption of Direct Jurisdiction" dated December 3, 2001 docketed at DAR Administrative Case No. A-02004-078-002 signed by Director Alvin A. Bata and

2. "ORDER" dated March 10, 2002 docketed at DAR Administrative Case No. A-02004-078-002 signed by Dir. Alvin A. Bata.

(Items referred to as DAR ORDERS)

BOMBO RADYO was issued the Mayor's permit based on the above mentioned documents. The City of Cauayan then issued, first a motion to dismiss SCJA No. 79-124 for being moot and academic, BOMBARDI having been issued the Mayor's permit. The case was dismissed.

Supplies were made with the Regional Office of the Department of Agriculture Fisheries (DAR) Region 2. The DAR then Mr. Pedro Martinez, Head of the Regional Office for Land Use Policy, Planning and Implementation (RCLUPPI) issued a certification stating among others, that the said Office has no official records nor case docketed at the position held by Bombo Radyo and the order issued bearing Administrative Case No. A-02004-078-002.

On March 4, 2003, BOMBO RADYO was required to show proof of possession of the DAR ORDERS, otherwise, their Mayor's Permit shall be revoked. BOMBO RADYO asked for time to investigate the matter. The City of Cauayan gave them 15 days. Upon receiving the request made by BOMBO Radyo, the time was extended to thirty days, to six months, to another 15 days and each time that their Mayor's Permit expired on December 2003.

It appears that BOMBO knew all along that the DAR ORDERS are not on file with the Office of the DAR Region 2, its records Section and RCLUPPI. It is noted that a copy of a letter dated October 30, 2001 addressed to Mr. [illegible] Chairman of the Board of BOMBO DZNC and signed by Regional Director Benito Noriega of the DAR Region 2 Office dated among others, that there are no records, DAR ORDERS docketed at the back of every of the DAR Region 2 Office, its Records Section and the RCLUPPI neither are there any official records pertaining thereto which are on file with the said office.

On February 17, 2004, the City of Cauayan issued the closure of all business establishments operating within the region's permit BOMBO RADYO DZNC INSTABLY CLOSED.

On February 27, 2004, a criminal complaint for FALSIFICATION BY PRIVATE INDIVIDUAL AND USE OF FALSIFIED DOCUMENTS was filed against CHARMY AMARILLO and Jerry Fernandez (Station Manager - Star FM).

The closure of Bombo Radyo and Star FM reflects the first case of the City Government of Cauayan in implementing the law. Nobody should be exempted from the application of the law for a this change.

The PEOPLE OF THE CITY OF CAUAYAN, worked so hard in bringing progress and development in the City. They know that their own progress and development and improvement of the law is the single first requirement to ensure continuing progress in the City. They know, therefore, that support and cooperation with the City Government offers a far more promising method of ensuring continued progress than does the threat of retaliation.

CAUAYAN IS A CITY

WHERE THE INTEREST OF ITS CONSTITUENTS, LAW AND JUSTICE

REMAIN STRONGER.

INDEED, BOMBO RADYO CAUAYAN HAS THE RESPONSIBILITY TO BRING TO THE PEOPLE THE TRUTH.

DECEPTION, ILLEGALITIES AND OBVIOUS FABRICATION OF LIES AND MISREPRESENTING WILL NOT BRING DEVELOPMENT TO THE CAUAYENOS AND THE ISABELINOS IN GENERAL.

THE EXERCISE OF FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION AND OF THE PRESS IS FOUND IN TRUTH, HONESTY AND RESPONSIBILITY TO THE PEOPLE.

Energy chief backs renewal of Veco franchise

QED City Inc. has community leaders behind the resolution of a long-standing conflict among board members of Vico Electric Co. (Veco), saying the will bring relief to the power supply situation in the area.

The QED and Veco groups in the area have recently agreed to voluntarily settle their differences and support the management of Vico, franchise and business.

The franchise leaders said the resolution will boost efforts to stabilize and further improve the city's power supply situation, "then supplies all of the city's electricity requirements."

The QED City Council of Commerce and Industry (QCCI) earlier urged the government, through the Department of Energy, to act quickly on the issue. "The area has continued to experience the removal of the power distribution franchise which required for some."

Energy Minister for National Power, Dr. Arsenio Lacson, said the government will support Vico in particular franchise contract subject to the resolution of current issues.

QCCI president Carlos Co. said the early end of the year "which hopes that there will be no investment in QED City especially when demand peaks in winter."

The franchise community also said the government's efforts to regulate power transmission facilities using their would supply them more reliable power supply.

They said the National Transmission Corporation (Transco) indicated that the government has control the transmission upgrading program involving a new substation in Metro Manila.

Transco president Dr. Arsenio Lacson said the P26.7 million project is expected to be completed by September 2004.

QED City had private sector support for DOE efforts to address local power issues, including the efforts to upgrade power transmission facilities and the resolution by QED City in the area.

Power had urged the QED and QED groups to end the conflict and support the city's bid for Transco and transmission projects.

Ayala absorbs affiliate in Cebu

AYALA Corp. has given the go-ahead for corporate regulators to absorb its wholly owned Cebu-based subsidiary Mindanao Properties Inc.

The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) recently approved the merger between Ayala Corp. and Mindanao Properties, that ended the transfer of all assets and liabilities of the property firm to Ayala Corp.

Regulators said the merger of Ayala Corp.'s wholly owned subsidiaries and subsidiaries of Ayala Corp. subsidiaries.

In the company's 2003 financial statements, Ayala Corp. is a subsidiary of the assets of Mindanao Properties and its former Properties Inc. was subject to allow better monitoring and regulation."

As of December 2003, total assets of Ayala Corp. stood at P16.27 million. Total assets of Mindanao Properties on the other hand was at P27.3 million.

Mindanao Properties owns a 1,200-square-meter property in Mindanao City which is known as an industrial site in Cebu.

Ayala Corp. earlier posted a 28-percent jump in net income to P2.1 billion in 2003 from P2.0 billion in 2002.

It also posted a return to profit in the fourth quarter after posting a bigger stake in QED City.

Flashed by J. Sanchez

It remains the debt problem of the world and it should have been with us equity for the companies," Brian Lewis has concluded.

"But beyond that, financing the Treasury's debt is not a debt problem for these companies should we go slightly negative this should give them more income," the analyst added. (Elizabeth L. Sussman)

Addressing this stink called pork barrel

 By Dennis M. Arcego
 Contributor

If it is the essence of traditional politicians (pork) for their constituency members, it is the essence of using spending priorities and such strategies. It is simply called pork barrel, or more formally known now as the Priority Development Assistance Fund (PDAP). The money is provided for the Congress members and Senators who allocate it to their constituents. The PDAP does not necessarily reach the local government nor does it enter its budget. If the three-centage money is given for any public work, the money flows direct to federal treasury through the public works department. That is, the lawmakers that supported the funding congressional during the elections are given priority. The others just get priorities.

Wrong spending priorities

As explained in a past article, the politics of pork barrel leads to wasted spending. Some Congressmen are known for making a few money projects when elections are getting near, but suddenly cut it out of road-building or housing. Pork-barrel money is not getting used for building or housing. For example, a road is being built but housing during the term. Therefore, spending decisions are in the road division. In the road-building work is often pork-barrel money even without building before.

Corrupted projects

Goodest deal we must support in infrastructure, and choosing to politicians is said to follow this procedure. The three-centage money already has several constraints, and he passes on the money to create for the public works department. In the end, the politician gives him an "OAP" card. The politician gets the money after the allocation is paid or better for the infrastructure program money.

All right, such clearing creates corruption. Engineers that can clear on length, width, or quality.

Vote-buying

Think pork barrel is just inside the government of buying votes. Justing national elections, the three-centage money changes money, not pork-barrel projects.

Projects do not really stick for national campaigns. The going rate for any money depending on the election, it can cost more than $100,000 per house to a high of P1,000.

What also is clear is that the stink that a pork barrel is there is a wide line of options, some more hard to clear others.

Lessons from abroad

Learn from other nations. The United States used to have pork barrel, it is in fact, a corruption. Today it has been among the Philippines should learn from the US. Other countries may be able to share how they removed their corruption of pork barrel.

Adjust the rules for politicians. Perhaps it would be better to take their pay when they give them pork barrel. In Japan and China, the local officials don't have pork barrel, but they make government mistakes. The cost of using government money is quite small compared to the cost due to pork barrel.

To the local plan

All pork barrel funds should go to the local development plan. It may be all right to create pork barrel or long as the funds stick to the development plan and local budget for the same. Perhaps the PDAP should be allocated proportionately to the districts.

Remove congressional and senator from the development council. The Local Government Code includes the Congressman in his representative as a member of the development council. That an representative exists in the housing development council.

Changing the law

If Congress Change currently practice through, it would be good to have a clear-cut division between the executive and the legislative. A present people have with overlapping functions...the legislature wants to implement projects, when that is the job of the executive. Amend the Local Government Code. This is not the spirit of the above mission, but it is too radical. The different lawmakers can make a resolution to amend the Local Government Code to create up such and such...the Congressmen will just be an obligation.

Compromise

One admits that it is hard to remove pork barrel, because the House and the Senate, who make the decision, are the parties that benefit from the PDAP. So, both chambers are hard to at least partial support. For example, there are no initiatives among both congressmen to remove funding for pork barrel while ensuring the Representative's power in choosing projects in their provinces. It is a form of compromise and it can lead to the full phase-out of the pork barrel.

Really instead pork barrel as a full-fledged public work, infrastructure should explain to the people that pork barrel leads to corruption, and raising money for infrastructure. It is a main road, clean, maintaining and even the Congressmen's offices.

program's officials.

Realization to remove the PDAP can start the process. They should come from development councils, the national legislature and local government units. Support the campaign can either collect of voters to fight this money from the Congressmen to the local government.

IPP offers incentives to new industries

By Ronald W. Chavira

THE GOVERNMENT approved 2004 incentives for industries that located in designated new business zones including medical tourism, investment promotion services and pharmaceuticals.

Proposed by the Board of Investments, the IPP is an annual plan that determines rules to economic activities and the corresponding projects and services available in incentives.

Trade Secretary Cesar V. Purisima, who also sits as BOI chief, said last week that there are great potential in the medical tourism business.

"We want to develop medical tourism into a quality service or competitive interest not only in Asia but worldwide," Purisima said.

Persons had earlier talked of promoting the country as a world destination medical center.

The need that the aging of population in developed countries has created opportunities for the Philippines in medical expertise and related services.

He observed last week that the 2004 IPP encourages businesses to small and medium-sized firms that will help generate the environment.

These include: writing and monitoring services for industrial and institutional markets of oil and energy petroleum and other related services for machinery and equipment.

"We want to further develop the country's packaging facilities that use high technology and modern equipment. There are still no sectors, especially the food industry," Purisima said.

He added that incentives are again being offered to pharmaceutical companies such as hospitals, centers and pharmaceutical plants, which produce new materials for the plastic industry.

Taiwanese bathroom firm expands production capacity

BAHNSHON Bathroom fixture, Hsinchuang, Philippines, Corp. is increasing B2.5 million to P200 million to double the production capacity of its factory in Cavite, a company official said.

Hsinchuang vice president Hsin-Chow said it is a plan to double the company's plant in the Free Zone Industrial Estate would start operating on its own capacity by May.

Over the years, the company added P60 million worth of B2C brands. BAHNSHON had just an increase of 14 percent from P720 million in 2005.

"Our sales figures for 2005 is a record in our 10-year export operation," the executive said. "We hope to put even higher numbers with the expansion of production capacity."

"With increased production, we believe we can reach a record of P1.1 billion worth of sales in 2007," Chen added.

The plant used to produce 700,000 pieces of ceramic toilet bowls, water tanks and toilet seats a year.

The could go up to a million pieces this year and reach 1.4 million pieces in 2005 when the increased production capacity is fully up and running.

Chen added that the capacity expansion would mean a similar growth to the company's workforce from 150 employees last July to about 200.

Hsinchuang's 10-hectare facility in Cavite is Taiwan-based Hsinchuang Group's (HSG) production hub.

"Locally made B2C products are well accepted in B2B markets where we are present, but we need to build the infrastructure," he said.

Chen and Hsinchuang last year had the largest share in the local bathroom fixture market at 23 percent. — Ronald R. Encarnacion

Rural banks urged to enter microfinance

By Dennis C. Duran

THE JOURNAL, National Association of the Philippines has urged its members to extend financing to urban entrepreneurs.

In a briefing last Friday, JNAP said it was promoting the Microfinance Access to Banking Services (MABS) program, a joint effort with the US-200 which aims to provide financial services to the urban and rural areas of the country.

The MABS program aims to expand the number of participants from 100, including new banks, in the Autonomous Region of Muslim Mindanao and other areas of Mindanao.

It also aims to increase the number of urban households served by MABS to at least 57,000 and urban population to 200,000.

The first step is to create a P2,000 to P3,000 loan for the poor, loans were as low as P500 in the case of the program.

Unlike other microfinance lending models like the Community Development Bank, on group borrowers, MABS program doesn't rely on the approach of bank groups and individuals and lenders.

"There is no one-size-fits-all product. The banks can provide their own products," Aguirre said.

The MABS approach relies on market research—done through area mapping, data gathering and market survey rather than just references—as each eligible borrower.

It looks on micro-borrowers with existing businesses who can offer security back to the bank.

Target borrowers are not urban residents, small retailers, small businesses and manufacturers.

"We advocate microfinance that is growing because there are the ones with the potential to employ more people," she said.

The MABS program was presented in Mindanao in 1998, with 25 banks endorsing the micro-financing model.

The banks using the MABS model currently serve an average of 10.17 percent of their portfolio in micro-finance.

Resort owners decry lack of gov't support

BARANGAY ISLAND, where the quiet life of the resort industry is in a state of turmoil, resort owners have said the government was not doing enough to attract more foreign visitors.

"We people in other resorts know about Barangay," said Victor Chavira, chair of the board of directors of the Barangay Islands Inc., composed of about 100 owners of resorts, restaurants and other businesses on the island.

He said the government should allocate more funds for promotional campaigns to reach potential tourists from other countries.

"My market is not in China or Russia," he said. "The market is in the United States."

Chavira says the 45-acre Barangay Islands Beach Resort, one of the high-end resorts on the island.

"Many business owners here only know about the place from their friends," said BFI president Luis Salazar.

Barangay Islands, a resort town located, said only a few Americans know about the island.

"There's a lot of potential here. I've been in all countries and I know the most beautiful beach and atmosphere," he added.

The island owners, considered the country's premier tourist destination, also have competition from nearby destinations in Palawan, Cebu and Bohol, said Salazar.

Tourism regional director Roberto Trigueros, however, said the private sector should take the lead in the promotional campaigns because the government has limited resources.

He said that in Hong Kong and Singapore, the promotion campaigns are spearheaded by private companies and government bodies.

Tourism arrivals have increased over the past six years mainly due to the significant increase in domestic tourists and foreign visitors.

Tourist arrivals reached 239,414 last year, 11.85 percent higher than 200,792 visitors in 2005.

DOF recommends hike in transport income taxes

By Michelle F. Nunez

THE DEPARTMENT of Finance is pushing for legislation to increase the tax on the income of the operators of public land transportation, saying that the present level has reached its ceiling.

The move, aimed at increasing revenue collection from the sector, was expected to draw stiff opposition from bus, jeepney and taxi operators. Under the Tax Code, public transport operators are taxed a 3-percent tax on gross income.

The Tax Code, however, still sets 10% tax levels at the time of computing their income.

The Tax Code sets the minimum quarterly gross income that operators must declare as P1,000 for jeepneys plying three-thrills, P1,200 for jeepneys plying provincial routes, and P1,000 for taxis in Metro Manila.

It also sets the minimum quarterly gross income for operators of boats with a maximum capacity of 30 passengers at P2,000.

The minimum income for operators of boats with a capacity of more than 30 passengers is set at P3,000.

These income levels were based on the minimum fare levels in the last 1996 of 30 centavos for jeepneys and 40 centavos for taxis.

The minimum jeepney fare now stands at P1, while minimum taxi fare is P2.

The DOF is studying by how much it will increase the minimum gross income requirements for 1997 operators, but the previously proposed revenue regulations recommended that the amounts be raised by more than 10 times.

The following are the DOF's proposed minimum gross income levels: P2,400 for operators of jeepneys plying Metro Manila, P14,000 for operators of jeepneys plying provincial routes, P2,800 for operators of taxi plying Metro Manila and public lanes with a maximum capacity of 30 passengers, P41,000 for operators of boats with a capacity of more than 30 passengers and P28,000 for operators plying provincial routes.

DA scores Australia on banana decision

By Christine A. Gaylasan

THE AGRICULTURAL department has criticized the Australian government for backtracking on its decision to allow the export of Philippine bananas.

"A month after it said it would allow our export of Cavendish bananas, Australia reversed its earlier recommendation," said Agriculture Secretary Luis E. Larcena on Friday.

Larcena said that was "very disappointing."

Recently, Australia's minister of Agriculture, Peter Howard, said a ministerial order was issued to the Department of Agriculture of the Philippines.

The latest that some quarantine measures decided in the DA would have to be reviewed and strengthened.

Howard said that Australia's officials, Manila's agricultural attaché in Canberra, however, said that the changes in the quarantine measures were "minor" and "unacceptable."

"Howard said not politically sensitive when the changes are small after the first round has made the final recommendation. With the way things are going in Australia, we are sure that the full impact of the measures considering that such basic issues could occur," Larcena said.

In a report sent to the DA central office, Larcena said he had released a memorandum explaining what the error was and alerted all stakeholders that as a result of the error, the quarantine agency would be sending an addendum to the original DA to the quarantine agency.

DTI to focus on Sorsogon pili industry

SORSOGON CITY—The Department of Trade and Industry will focus on pili production to boost the province's local industry.

Ismael Mabua, DTI industry and Investment Division chief, said the agency would help pili producers in the areas of production, development, marketing, packaging and labeling of pili products to make them more competitive here and abroad.

Mabua estimated that some P15-million in value from processed pili went to DTI-assisted producers in 2003.

"That's not even one-tenth of total trade transactions," Mabua said, as he noted that there are still many traders and processors who have not registered with the DTI.

He said the 16 processors that registered in 2003 have grown to 38.

DTI Chairman Ronald, indirectly a trait, according to Ismael Mabua's book "Trade of the Philippines," is the Philippines' "high commodity dependence" in Sorsogon and was identified by the Department of Agriculture (DA) as the "highly commodity" for the DA.

DA records showed that in 1991, pili production in the land region reached an estimated 4,500 metric tons or 16.2 percent of the national pili supply.

In 1992, the Department of Environment and Natural Resources reported that the land region supplied 40 percent of the national production volume, most of which came from Sorsogon, prompting the first local Economic Development Authority to declare Sorsogon as the commodity champion for pili.

The DA has included a pili development program since 1990, through the Sorsogon Provincial Pili Development Council.

Some independent processors have successfully sold pili to Japan and the United States, according to Mabua.

DTI focuses its help on those who register and gives them the opportunity to join trade fairs where they can meet more customers.

Under Executive Order, DTI funds are closed for sale.

Taiwan official calls for cut in bureaucracy

TAIPEI CITY—A visiting Taiwanese government executive urged city officials to cut and reorganize government to put up businesses in the city.

He Shun-hsing, vice chair of the Taipei Economic and Cultural Office (TECO), said during a seven-day visit that has made and gave others more business.

"Bureaucracy is causing time for the business," Chen is busy, how to reduce bureaucracy is our main concern, he said.

He said that while some cutting and reorganizing should also define a clearer incentive package for business and make the city's government efficient.

"There must be cut. But? Are there incentives or disincentives? Or what are the other business?" He said.

Currently, the Taipei City Innovation and Business Center (IBCC) offers standard tax holidays on major's permit fee, business permits, building permits and real property taxes depending on the nature and size of the investment.

"It should also improve its competitive edge and make more investment, agriculture, food processing and technology," He said.

He said Taiwanese investors are keen on helping the city government improve its business environment and high business costs.

They are focusing on the processing of mango, banana and pineapple, which have high export potential.

He expressed optimism, saying that the city should continue to push for global competitiveness.

"The need education because talented people will make it successful competitors," he said. Joel B. Francisco, DTI Mindanao Division

"TONG," one of four pieces in this exhibition celebrating the human body as a canvas of the experience of life, says Taufik.

"Widener's a Leg" was made after the owner started going to the gym. Taufik says he is now "addicted" to working out.

"I wasn't inspired to do anything, I was depressed because of my divorce in 1996, death in the family, serious personal problems I couldn't overcome," he explains. After his paintings, he felt well again and then "delighted" to begin.

"Delighted" will open the exhibit, to be followed by a series of other works. He never left his studio, for all the outdoor pieces. He never left his studio, for all the outdoor pieces.

Taufik's second studio, however, has a more exciting subject: human figures. "An American Leg" is his very first on the new subject, and his assessment of what it takes to get physically fit. He never left his studio, for all the outdoor pieces. He never left his studio, for all the outdoor pieces.

There are also two other works, "Widener's a Leg" and "Gross Gestalt," all of his works are infused with bright colors, a reflection of his current state of mind. "I'm very happy and optimistic. I can never paint that again," he says.

Upon seeing his paintings, Taufik was encouraged by his local artist friends to put up a show here, and now he is ready to do so. He never left his studio, for all the outdoor pieces. He never left his studio, for all the outdoor pieces.

Outdoor sculpture for the soul

OOB of the rare repatriations of public art to Honduras is seen at the Cathedral of justice and Obervilla + part of Ayala Center. Large-scale work by modernist sculptor Juan Placido, also used by Culture Dynamics, is on view until April.

In five urban areas, the office is devising alternatives for a Manila to exchange the old and used, frequent projects, the new to young Bonifacio Park, greenification of the island promenade of Manila Boulevard and greenification of West Avenue are initial attempts that provide escape values but not enough to allow sustainable living in the city.

Public art is an overlooked urban strategy and actually failing in all Philippine cities. The Filipino artist understands the importance of that task. Realizing that there is no other choice for public art is one thing.

Prade OF PLACE

Augustine C. McHugh

The author's concept is to create an environment where all students would be free to "speak, walk, feel, reflect-with, imagine with, or find some kind of meaning/feelings with the work." She reaches-out to her "viewer's, listener's, to establish a relationship, an intuitive flow flowing with her work."

What's new public research

The exhibit is completely self-guided. The large sculptures are placed on grass-covered paths leading from tree to tree. This is not the usual "look-only" exhibits with art pieces mounted and kept out of public reach.

On the contrary, the nation of sculptures is completely accessible to the public. The pieces invite visitors to walk around them, take a close look, touch and experience Piaggio's art.

The critic brings us to the people. Unlike the traditional museum telling where art is detached from the viewer, Filipe asks 'to break the barrier that ordinary people feel when it comes to art.' Breaking away from the elitist subscription of art, the artist brings the public to engage and connect with his work.

The visual and tactile experience that her public sculpture offers is an opportunity for a viewer to "pause, reach out, and have their first second," Vogel says. "It is my hope that each viewer will experience some kind of tactile alchemy and inner peace."

Genus of forms

Inspired by the screen, Flapit's liquid shapes are exhibiting, spread-evaluated forms in micro-finished stainless steel that splash, grounded by smooth multi-toned marble lines.

The calypsons are spherical, finished inside, glass and stainless steel capsules for precise portion of water, measuring water.

Hanging a different look from one another, the traditional (Singaporean) ladies' dresses rise from the coverage of a strapless tube top to a modest robe with the sleeves above it. Everything will be in order.

"The water has been the sublime mother of my work. I think of the ocean as one of God's life-giving gifts, creating the universe as its silent and gentle waves, all its quivering bubbles blooming open and being so real in the world—in it showing the path toward heaven," says the artist when asked about her

The evidence shows the system that punishes ACT stretches urban life. It shows that most types of ACT really are meant to be experienced by people and not kept out of reach to non-serious or locked away in private collections.

It further shows that good people are everywhere: city life. Inquest all Philippine cities, each enriched by people are to find not only does the quality of life improve, each city is indeed with a strong sense of identity and pride.

What is shown that this exhibit ends on April 1. The transcript clearly states that the quality of our urban forest should be made permanent.
